

Press Release

September 20, 2012

Dr. Yoon Kim introduces Talkler to industry insiders at GigaOM Conference

Dr. Yoon Kim, PhD, introduced Talkler to industry insiders at GigaOM's Mobilize Event in San Francisco on September 20. Dr. Kim is the CEO of Novauris, the developer of state-of-the-industry speech recognition technology.

He spoke at the opening event of the conference, and introduced Talkler as an excellent example of the practical uses of Novauris' voice control innovations, and, in particular, how Talkler takes advantage of multimodal interface design. (Learn more at Talkler.com/the-tech-pdf)

Talkler CEO, Jeffrey Korn, attended the conference and Dr. Kim's panel discussion. Mr. Korn noted, "Yoon Kim is remarkably passionate about the Talkler story. We feel fortunate to be working with such an accomplished partner as Novauris. They're ideally qualified to support our efforts in pushing the envelope with game-changing UI design."

Throughout the rest of the conference, Mr. Korn had the opportunity to interact with colleagues in the Mobile Tech Industry. He answered questions about Talkler — the only heads-up, hands-off, reads-to-you, voice-controlled email app. Korn also remarked on the opportunity to "enjoy many mini-conferences all our own" — the chance to brainstorm with many of the sharpest minds in the industry.

Talkler will launch later this fall. For more news about Talkler, visit Facebook.com/Talkler or Twitter.com/Talkler. You can also sign-up for updates on the website at www.Talkler.com.

Media contacts — for further information, please contact:

Jeffrey Bannon
Director of Press Relations
Talkler Labs, LLC
Tel. 917-572-6159
jeffrey.bannon@talkler.com

About Talkler Labs

Founded in 2011, Talkler Labs is headquartered in Belmont, MA. A small, energetic team of inventors, designers, developers and technology partners from around the world has been working tirelessly to bring you Talkler — email for your ears.